The Arts Leadership Curriculum offers 7-week, half-semester courses and whole-semester courses on a variety of career-related topics relevant to professional musicians and music educators. ALC courses are open to all current graduate students and undergraduate seniors, juniors and sophomores. Students participating in the Certificate Program have preference in registering for these courses. Freshmen can register for these courses only with the permission of their advisor and the Assistant Director of the Arts Leadership Program. For more information on the ALP, please visit the Arts Leadership Program office in the Institute for Music Leadership @ Miller Center, or contact alp@esm.rochester.edu or 274-1112.

Additional information can be found on the ALP web-site at http://www.esm.rochester.edu/iml/alp/

| GRANTS 101 IN THE ARTS & CULTURE WORLD
(formerly GRANT WRITING FOR THE MUSICIAN) | R. Schwartz | Sp98   |
|
This course will offer a basic introduction to the grant-seeking process for arts and culture organizations, with an emphasis on cultivating support from private foundations. Students will learn about funding sources for arts programs; resources for foundation research; preparing an executive summary, letter of inquiry, and full proposal; developing grant budgets; and stewarding foundation relationships. The highlight of the course will be a "Meet the Donor" panel presentation by representatives from foundations that support arts and culture programs in Rochester. | S. Stover   | Sp00   |
|  |                                                                                   | Sp01   |

| GRANTS PRACTICUM | J. Sutherland | Sp06   |
This class puts into action the principles learned and practiced in “Grants 101” through the full completion of an actual proposal from start to finish. Students will have the choice of working on a proposal that will seek funding for a project on behalf of a specific department within Eastman (that meets the approval of the corresponding department head), or an area of the student’s interest which falls under the School’s identified priorities. The instructor will provide guided instruction and discussion of the initial determination of the need for a grant and the researching of likely sources for a specific grant within the framework of the Eastman School of Music. As part of the process, the class will review draft grant submissions for clarity of structure, logical presentation and readability. When possible, students will participate in meetings with faculty and staff members involved with their individual grant. Packaging the grant request and attachments for submission will also be covered. PREREQUISITE: GRANTS 101. PERMISSION OF INSTRUCTOR REQUIRED. |  |  |

In the competitive world of grants and sponsorships, you need the tools to help your proposal rise to the top. This course is structured for those not affiliated with non-profit organizations and will teach you how to research potential funding sources, compile a list of prospective funders, write a funding a case, and prepare a basic project budget. | M. Powell(Sp10) |  |
| INDIVIDUAL GRANT SEEKING | R. Schwartz | F06    |
Are you determined but ill equipped to find funding to support your education or a particular project? Structured for individuals not affiliated with non profits, such as students, musicians and researchers, this grant-writing course teaches you how to compile a reliable and current list of prospective funders and to structure compelling proposals, both of which will strengthen your capacity to support your studies and your work. | F07    |
| INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY & THE LAW: WHAT ARE YOUR DIGITAL RIGHTS? | P. Durant   | Sp05   |
|
If Napster (ultimately) helped composers, did Grokster? What did the Sixth Circuit mean when it said “you need a license to sample”? The goal of this course is to learn about current legal issues affecting the creation and distribution of music. We'll read laws, cases, and blogs and attempt to stay abreast of legal developments relevant to musicians. | Sp06   |
|  |                                                                                   | Sp07   |

|  |                                                                                   | Sp09   |
| INTERMEDIATE RECORDING | J. Truebger | Sp09   |
|
Do you already have a basic knowledge of audio recording but want to take it to the next level? If you have taken the Introduction to Recording: A Beginner’s Guide class, or started making your own recordings, and now wish to learn more about what it takes to make a professional quality stereo product, then this is the course for you. Through a series of hands-on projects, you’ll learn how to use microphones for a variety of situations and instruments, use computer recording programs such as Bias Peak, understand and apply processes such as signal processing, and study basic digital editing. This course will help you develop skills that can be applied in a home recording or project studio. All the software resources you need to work on your project outside of class will be available in the ESM Media Lab in the Student Living Center. While the Introduction to Recording class is not a requirement, students who enroll in Intermediate Recording should have a sound understanding of the concepts taught in that course, including the basics of how to make a demo recording. | Sp10   |

SPEAK FOR YOURSELF: PUBLIC SPEAKING FOR MUSICIANS

More and more, musicians are being required to provide a presentation to their audiences. These can be very valuable learning experiences, but giving oral presentations can also be stressful for musicians. Not only are they worried about getting up in front of a group to speak, but also many of them haven’t had much instruction in what constitutes an effective presentation. There are a number of ways that a skills-presentation teacher can help musicians prepare for their presentations. This course focuses on those skills necessary for successful public speaking.

TUNE IN, LOG ON, & DROP OUT: TECHNOLOGY AND MUSIC IN THE NAPSTER WORLD

The relationship between music and technology is as old as music itself; however, developments in digital technology and network delivery have the potential to impact music and music making as dramatically as the development of Edison's phonograph. From peer-to-peer environments such as Napster and Gnutella to audio codecs such as mp3 and RealAudio, new technologies offer musicians and consumers new and heretofore unimagined ways to create and experience music. This course will explore current and future technology and its impact on music, musicians, and listeners.

CLASSICAL MUSIC IN AN AGE OF POP

Why does classical music seem to be in trouble these days? Are the problems largely financial, or are there artistic difficulties, too? What's the cause of the trouble? These are some of the questions this course will address. We'll look at the artistic and financial situation of orchestras, and ponder the shrinkage of classical music on public radio. We'll look at classical music in centuries past; was it always so formal, so much removed from society at large? We'll look at pop music, as both an artistic and commercial phenomenon. What challenges does it pose for classical music? Finally, we'll look for signs of hope, and for things that all of us can do to help find classical music a larger audience.

THE JOYS & OPPORTUNITIES OF STUDIO TEACHING

Many if not most musicians find that teaching is one of their essential career components. Join the Jack Frank Instructors from Eastman's Community Music School for an in depth view of the enormous opportunities in studio teaching. Are there unique advantages/responsibilities for the teacher in: maintaining an independent studio, teaching at a music store or affiliating with a University or Community Music school? How do these choices influence the learning environment and opportunities for your students? What strategies are effective in motivating your students and deepening both their performance skills and enjoyment of music? Our goal is to help you become a most creative and effective teacher by sharing our experiences, strategies and "joy of teaching".

DEALING WITH STRESS ONSTAGE: Are you Using Adrenaline or is it Using You?
(formerly PERFORMANCE ENHANCEMENT SEMINAR)
This course will address issues related to improving performance in challenging situations, whether they be concerts, recitals, juries, or auditions. The goal is to create a clear understanding of performance related stress and to provide a comprehensive method for coping with its effects. Material covered includes a review of the stress model, assessment of individual performance strengths/weaknesses, and exercises specifically designed to improve performance while under pressure. Six of the sessions will be held via Internet 2, using this latest technology that allows our students to observe and interact with musicians at remote locations within the U.S. or across the globe. Note: Required course materials include Performance Success by Don Greene, PhD and completion of the online Artists’ Survey.

INSPIRATION AND MEANING THROUGH IMPROVISATION
Designed for undergraduate and graduate students with limited improvisation experience/exposure, this class will introduce practical techniques designed to develop improvisation skill in various styles and define relationships between improvising, reading, and composing music. The class will explore a variety of performance genres and include a logical harmonic and rhythmic sequence for skill development. Students will learn repertoire by ear, transcribe solos, and improvise solos, accompaniments, and counterpoint.

MUSIC BUSINESS: BOOKING & PLAYING A REAL GIG
As an Eastman student, you are fortunate to have such great performance opportunities. You perform in amazing concert halls, and have teachers, a concert office, and a stage crew who help with the logistics of your performances. Once you leave Eastman for the real world, this network of helping hands doesn’t follow you, and you’re left having to book your own gigs, negotiate your own contracts, promote your own performances, and plan logistics for your shows. Through a partnership with local businesses, this course will require you to do just that; book, negotiate, promote, and play your own show away from Eastman. In order to simulate a real world experience, the course instructor will act as a facilitator for student performances, which will happen outside of class. This course is open to all instrumentalists and vocalists in all genres of music.

<td>This class is designed to give hands on experience in presenting music to young people. It will consist of 14 hours, with the first 7 sessions comprised of instruction in how to present an effective master class, lecture recital, and class for elementary school students. These 7 sessions will take place at ESM during a regularly scheduled class time. Of the first 7 sessions, 2 or 3 class times will be set aside for individual coaching sessions with the instructor for those students who would like additional assistance in preparing their outreach programs. The second half of the course will consist of 3 required visits/presentations (total of 6 hours) that take place in a local school district. The presentations will not occur during the normal class time period, and will be coordinated with the local schools and students' class schedule. Dave Mancini will accompany the students to provide on site feedback and guidance. After completion of the presentations, a final class at Eastman will summarize the course, share experiences, and discuss how each of the students can continue to fine tune and improve their presentations.</td>

<td>This 14 week, one hour course explores the many facets that make up the voice audition process. This includes all types of auditions (the graduate school audition, the concert stage and all forms of lyric theater). Lectures and topics include: realistic repertoire programming, the functional yet noticeable resume and headshot, the completed package – application, dress, rapport, execution, mastering your audition anxiety, techniques to become artistically grounded in the exposing world of the inconsistent audition space, a survey and understanding of apprentice programs and summer institutes, being dynamically different in a world where many are the same, realistic goals and expectations as a maturing singer. The class will culminate with a ‘mock’ audition. Guest lectures will include members of the Eastman Voice and Opera Faculty and video conferencing with professional administrators. This course is open to all seniors and graduate students. Consent of the instructors and primary studio teacher are required.</td>

ALC 240 – Contemporary Orchestral Issues

Course Title: KEYSTONE COURSE:
REALITIES OF ORCHESTRAL LIFE

Students preparing for careers as orchestral musicians seem fully aware of the steps and preparation necessary to eventually win an audition, but a successful audition is merely the introduction to the Realities of Orchestral Life. This seven-week course will help familiarize interested students with issues and roles of the union, ICSOM, music director, management, board, committees, audition process, attitudes and musician dynamics. The first half of the course will discuss current practices of regional, mid-size and big 5 orchestras, while the second half will explore changing attitudes and ways musicians can be more proactive in shaping their workplace. Guest speakers who are currently active in the symphonic world will highlight the course.

ARTISTIC DECISION MAKING

This course will provide an understanding of the artistic decision making process when programming concerts and concert series, and the challenges of balancing artistic initiatives with fiscal responsibility. Utilizing the orchestra as a model and working through scenarios and case studies, participants will learn about budgeting, contracting guest artists, programming, and other important components of artistic planning. The concepts and skills taught in this course are essential and applicable to any artistic planning, from a single recital, a festival, or an entire season of concerts.

ALC 250 – The Healthy Musician

Course Title: INTRODUCTION TO MUSIC THERAPY

This course is an introduction to both the discipline of using music as therapy and the music therapy profession. Participants will examine the historical and philosophical bases of music therapy and the current functions of a music therapist as a health-field professional. Students will have the opportunity to hear from a number of music therapists and other professional musicians with current interest in using music as a healing force in people’s lives.

Instructor: B. Hunter
Instructor: L. Hunter
KEYS TO HEALTHY MUSIC

This course is designed to provide effective strategies for prevention of performance-related injuries as well as performance enhancement. Students will learn relevant anatomy and physiology, as well as the ergonomics of music. The risk factors for injuries specific to musicians will be explored. Exercises and practices that promote healthy posture and performance will be presented in a lab-type format. Complimentary services, such as massage, Feldenkrais, Mensendieck, Alexander and Yoga will be presented with guest lecturers. The goal of the course is to empower students to develop behaviors that will allow them to pursue their studies without interruption due to pain or injury.

The same course is offered in the Spring and Fall semesters. Students who enroll in the course should come prepared to participate in movement exercises.
