May we ever rise, with these in endless day,
Ever faithful, in thy truth may we be found;

O refresh us, in the deep things of grace;
May thy summons to our hearts and lives a bound;

May we ever, joy and peace, let us each, thy possess in love,
Let each, thy possess in love, joy and peace;

World a day, fear of death shall not appall us,
Tears of villains, for thy cross's fall.

So that when thy love shall call us, Sa-vor, from the grave,
Thrice we give and adore a-lone.
