

Improvisation and Music Literacy: Past, Present, and Future

Christopher Azzara, Eastman School of Music

Christopher Azzara will present current pedagogy based on improvisation skills that reflect Renaissance and Baroque traditions, including teaching applications for learning to improvise to several popular partimenti. Azzara will demonstrate six elements and seven skills for learning to improvise and will provide musical examples by Eastman faculty members.